SHARKLAB - MALTA

MALTA NATIONAL AQUARIUM

As part of the "Oviparous Species Recovery and Release Program" coordinated by Sharklab-Malta and supported by the Malta National Aquarium .

We have the pleasure of inviting you see the release of 45 Smallspotted Catsharks, back into the waters around the Maltese Islands, where they belong..

This will take place at South Quay, Nr Cirkewwa on Saturday 10th January. The sharks will arrive on site at 10.00 am and the release will take place shortly after.

This is the largest single release of sharks to date through this program and all sharks being released were supported through their development at the Malta National Aquarium after being recovered as eggs from females landed by fishermen at the Pixxkerija (fish market), by Sharklab-Malta.

This small species of shark referred to as Gattarel tat-tikek, normally lives at a depth range of several hundred metres. Growing to a maximum length of 50 cm, it is hoped that the released sharks will seek deep water soon after being released.

If you would like to know more information about this work and other work being undertaken by Sharklab-Malta then check out the website www.sharklab-malta.org (<http://www.sharklab-malta.org>) and if you have any questions, feel free to mail info@sharklab-malta.org.

To see sharks developing which have been recovered through this program then please visit the Malta National Aquarium, Qawra.

We look forward to seeing you on the 10th January.

Come along and see how we are making a difference.
